

03/03/08 - Mindshare Software goes Open Source

After deciding not to update our line of commercially available Flash applications, Mindshare Software, to the new Actionscript 3.0 specification, we decided to release them as open source projects.

This is just a small way to give back to the open source Flash community. I'll update this post once the new OS versions are actually ready for download. For now, you can read about the components here and here.
